Firemen's Alarm

No Peace Either

Way You Look at It

Ad-taker writing up a classified item for a house in St. Joseph, Mo., soliciting washing and ironing business listed by mistake the telephone number of the fire station — and the firemen had 25 calls before noon. The checker game was alarmed.

Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, told off the members yesterday. In the words of the Associated Press report: "He told them, in effect, that unless Red China is seated in the U.N. and the Russians come back to United Nations meetings, there can be no progress toward world peace."

But he didn't finish the thought the rest of us are thinking.

If we keep Red China out there can be no progress toward world peace — but if we let her in there won't be any progress away from war.

China presents a devious problem. The old China Nationalist government of Chiang Kai-shek, now folded, is still technically a member of the five-place top body of the U. N.: United States, Britain, France, Russia — and China. Each of them holds veto power.

Heretofore the United States has been sure of a majority vote — and so Russia was always the one forced to file a veto. But neither Britain nor France always voted with us. Usually one, but not always both. With Nationalist China and either Britain or France we had three out of five votes.

Now Russia is demanding admittance of Red China to the U. N. and once Red China is admitted Russia is certain to demand for her the top-body position formerly held by Chiang Kai-shek's government.

Then the United States would face the strong possibility of finding herself in a minority, two to three — either France or Britain with us, and either Britain or France, Russia and China against us.

We would be "the vetoing one" then. But it goes further than that. Eventually the situation would compel us to withdraw and fold the entire U. N. organization.

Basically, the trouble is that Russia has helped undermine the established government of China by force and revolution sought to capture control of the top group in U. N.

Long ago the United States laid down the principle that we wouldn't recognize in Central and South America any government which came into power by force. We can't adhere to that in absolutely every instance — but it's the general principle, just the same.

Every reasonable man grants China the right to overthrow a questionable government by revolution. That is one thing. But to allow that Russia can "use" China in a political plot to capture control of the peace machinery of the entire world is something else.

Regardless what the secretary-general of the United Nations told the boys yesterday — after his return from Moscow — we're just as close to peace now, if not closer, with Red China out of U. N., than we will be should the U. N. take her in.

Demos to Rule on Negro Candidates

Little Rock, June 8 (P) — A meeting of the Arkansas State Democratic committee to take a stand on whether Negroes may become candidates in party primaries will be held here next Tuesday.

The Democratic party in Arkansas has a rule restricting candidates to "white electors."

This rule was challenged after the Rev. J. H. Gatlin, Little Rock Negro, was not permitted to pay a ballot fee as a candidate for a nomination for Little Rock alderman.

The call for next Tuesday's meeting said merely the committee would discuss "any matters which might come before it."

But Secretary Frank Newell, Little Rock, said Gatlin's appeal was certain to come up.

Head of Oil, Gas Commission Resigns

El Dorado, June 8 (P) — Lester F. Danforth, director of conservation for the Arkansas Oil and Gas commission for the past four years, has resigned.

Commission Chairman O. C. Bailey said Danforth stepped down from his post June 1 to enter private business at Tulsa, Okla. Danforth came here in 1948 from Oklahoma.

F. M. McLaughlin, a member of the commission staff since 1947, has been appointed acting director. McLaughlin is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma.

Five Narrowly Escape When Ambulance With Injured Patient Forced From Road

Home ambulance enroute to Texarkana with a critically injured patient took to the ditch about 16 miles west of Fulton on Highway 67 shortly before noon today to avoid crashing head-on with a truck which had suddenly turned left across the highway in front of the moving vehicle.

The driver, R. V. Herndon, Jr., an ambulance attendant, Bobby Joe Lee, escaped with minor injuries and Mitchell 67, edgeman at Graydon Anthony Lumber Company, apparently suffered none the worse in the accident.

Mitchell had a splinter pierce his eye and possibly made contact with his brain while working at the Anthony Mill a short time earlier. He was taken on to Texarkana by an East Funeral Home ambulance of that city.

The truck driver, Ed Washington, Rt. 4, Texarkana and a passenger, Oscar Brunson of Fulton, also escaped with minor injuries. Both were arrested by state officers following the accident.

Officers said the ambulance left the road in order to avoid hitting head-on, the truck which suddenly cut left across the road at Clipper's Crossing.

State officers Milton Mosier, Hassell and Porter, credited Herndon with remarkable driving and possibly preventing serious injury to ambulance occupants. In leaving the road the ambulance headed for a fence but Herndon cut it back down the ditch and held it straight ahead for 15 feet, keeping it from hitting any of the fence post directly.

Although the ambulance was practically demolished the patient who was strapped to the cot was not hurt apparently suffered no ill effects.

Underworld Reaps From Drug Addicts

Washington, June 8 (P) — Senate investigators studied reports today that a powerful underworld ring is reaping riches from the misery of at least 50,000 drug addicts.

The reports came from Commissioner J. H. Anslinger of the U.S. Narcotics bureau. Anslinger's force of 175 agents, some senators say, is too small to cope with the situation.

Anslinger gave his estimate of the number of narcotics addicts to the special committee investigating crime and gambling.

Chairman Kefauver (D-Tenn.) told reporters the number represents those who buy narcotics illegally — that is, from sources outside the medical world.

Anslinger has given the senate group a list of 500 persons who, he says, form a criminal ring dealing in narcotics, crime and even murder.

Kefauver said it is obvious that the narcotics traffic extends to every city of any size in the United States.

The committee also is eyeing the gambling situation in the St. Louis area, where state police raided a bookmaker's headquarters Monday. Police were reported to have found confidential files indicating big wagers were being handled through Western Union office managers.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch said the files also showed that Western Union managers were offered a 25 per cent cut in bookie winnings on horse race bets transmitted by wire.

In New York, Western Union officials said their office managers are instructed not to accept gifts or commissions from gamblers.

Police in Trenton, N. J., yesterday released photographs which they said were copies of direct mail advertisements by C. J. Rich and Co., the bookmakers raided in St. Louis. The documents gave a bank reference and said the firm had been in business 20 years.

"We are just as close to you as your telephone," the ad said. "Once you have established your business relationship with us, simply telephone your wires to the closest telegraph office."

Hope Methodist Dist. Adds New Members

Hot Springs, June 8 (P) — The Little Rock conference of Methodist churches has added 5,527 members during the past year.

The additions were reported here yesterday at the annual conference convention. The Little Rock district added 1,704, and the Camden district 1,020. Other district additions included: Arkadelphia, 793; Hope 627; Monticello, 65, and Pine Bluff, 733.

The conference today was to consider a proposal for consolidation of the Little Rock and North Arkansas conferences.

The convention will end Sunday with announcement of pastoral appointments for the next year.

Scholarships Awarded to Six Girls

Hot Springs, June 8 (P) — One year scholarships to Arkansas colleges have been awarded to six girls at the seventh annual convocation of the Arkansas Future Homemakers of America at Camp Couchdale near here.

The recipients include Hattie Merle Culpepper, Watson Chapel, Arkansas Tech and Miss Peggy Jonesboro, Jonesboro.

June Snowstorm Covers Much of Montana

By the Associated Press

A June snowstorm hit Montana today, dumping more than four inches of snow over some areas. Temperatures were below freezing and in the 30's over much of the state in the early morning.

Snow also fell in parts of Wyoming as masses of cold air from the Pacific and Canada rolled into the Rocky mountain region. The cool air moved into the northern plains and the mercury tumbled in parts of the Dakotas as much as 40 degrees.

Falls of more than four inches of snow were reported at Helena, and Great Falls, Mont. At Billings the fall was reported "moderate," with visibility at zero. Falls also were reported at Butte, Miles City, Cut Bank and over the higher elevations in the western part of the state. Rain fell in many areas.

The central and eastern parts of the nation had a hot spell and mid-summer temperatures were forecast again today. The hot weather yesterday also was in eastern Colorado and New Mexico and extreme western Texas. Highest reading yesterday was 107 at Presidio, Tex.

The cool air from the northern Rockies was expected to extend over much of the north central region by tomorrow, moderating as it moves eastward.

Demonstration Planned at Brown Farm

A study of the future economy of Hempstead county indicates that such economy will be based upon two principals, that of livestock and timber.

At 3 p.m. Friday afternoon on the Elmer Brown farm, just off of highway 29, south of Hope, public demonstrations will be held of modern machine methods of planting pine seedlings and sod.

All persons in Hempstead county interested in taking some positive step toward assuring the future generation of a sound economy are invited to attend these demonstrations.

All persons interested in planting pine seedlings this fall are again reminded that orders must be placed for the seedlings this month.

Buck Baker Is Named to National Sheriffs Board

Chicago, June 8 (P) — Sheriff W. H. Baker of Lewisville, Ark., and former Sheriff Howard Clayton of Arkansas City, Ark., were named to the board of governors of the National Sheriffs association here yesterday.

The Pulaski county, Ark., Junior Deputy organization won a prize for an exhibit it entered at the association's convention which ended yesterday.

An Example of What Might Happen If the U. S. Should Televis European Sities

By HAL BOYLE

New York (P) — "U. S. senator urges building of television network abroad to offset Soviet propaganda and teach virtues of American way," — news item.

Let's suppose Uncle Sam does set up a free community television screen in 50 selected European towns. And let's suppose these screens show exactly the same programs as now flicker across television sets here.

Within three months the White House might be bombarded by letters such as the following: "I am a Communist in your village. My name is Boches from our village. My name is Boches from the Marshall plan. You will be pleased to know that we now have the roofs back on most of our houses again."

But to get down to business: It is about the new television programs that I write you.

Since the television came, our little village is not the same. It is like the revolution. Sometimes I long for the war again. It was more peaceful here.

Yesterday a delegation of shopkeepers arrive at my office and say: "Smash the television screen!" I ask why.

"Because the women no longer will buy our goods," the leader says. "They say 'why should the women of France pay money for pots and pans and flour? In America the women get them for nothing. They go to the television. The master of ceremonies, he hug them kiss them and give them anything they want."

What can I tell them? Nothing. Why? Because my wife — without the single word to me — she sends in the question to one of your programs. And it is announced on the screen, there before the whole village, that my wife wins the electric dishwasher.

What does this mean? Well, we have one Communist in our village. He goes around and whispers: "The mayor's wife wins the dishwasher. Aha, I told you. It is an American plot to control the elections in Lethargie. Our mayor is in the pay of President Truman."

Believe Arming Germany Would Weaken Defense

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, June 8 (P) — State department officials were reported convinced today that any effort now to rearm Western Germany would weaken rather than strengthen the defenses of the West against Russia.

To this conviction is mainly attributed Secretary of State Acheson's firm reassertion yesterday of American policy that Germany must be kept disarmed, despite official word that from the military point of view its rearmament in the West would be a good thing.

Acheson's position in foreign policy matters is decisive, under the President's authority. Hence, it is apparent that any thought of direct action by the United States at this time to form a West German army is out of the question.

However, it also appears that the issue has brought about a clash of political and military views, and is likely to remain a lively controversy inside the government for months.

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, told a house committee Tuesday that he believes "the defenses of Western Europe would be strengthened by including Germany or such part of it as we control." But he added that he was not qualified to judge the political considerations in such a case.

Acheson told his news conference yesterday that Bradley was discussing a theoretical question and had made it quite clear that he was not advocating German rearmament. While Acheson thus stated the technical situation it is common knowledge that many if not all top military leaders regard Germany as a potentially valuable source of military strength for the West.

On the other side of the iron curtain the Russians evidently have the same thing in mind. They have formed a well-armed East German "police force" which the Western powers have bluntly called a military organization.

U. N. Head Gets Four Honorary College Degrees

Lakd Success, N. Y., June 8 (P) — United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie has received four honorary doctor of law degrees so far this month.

The degrees were conferred on Lie by Upsala college of ast range, N. J.; the New School of Social Research, New York; Columbia university, and Lafayette college, at Easton, Pa.

Since becoming U. N. Secretary-general in February, 1946, Lie has received 10 other honorary degrees.

MINISTER TO LONDON WILL TESTIFY IN AMERASIA CASE — Brig. Gen. Julius Holmes, U. S. Minister to London, who was Assistant Secretary of State at the time of the 1945 Amerasia stolen documents case, talks with reporters after he arrived in Washington to testify before the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee. Holmes told reporters after his appearance that someone in government ordered that prosecution in the Amerasia case be held up to avert "friction" at the San Francisco UN Conference. (NEA Telephoto)

Nomination of Warren Elates Republicans

Washington, June 8 (P) — Gov. Earl Warren's combined majority in the California primaries was greeted by Senator Brewster (R-Me) today as also meaning an additional Republican senator.

Brewster is chairman of the Republican senate campaign committee, which is after every victory possible in an effort to recapture GOP control of the senate.

In Tuesday's California's primaries, Republican Warren almost doubled the vote of James Roosevelt in the Republican and Democratic gubernatorial primaries combined. However Warren failed to repeat his 1946 feat of winning both nominations and his third term bid this fall will be contested by Roosevelt, son of the late President, on the Democratic ticket.

"That (combined majority) means victory this fall for a Warren-Nixon ticket over a Roosevelt-Douglas slate," Senator Brewster told reporters.

Two house members, Reps. Helen Gahagan Douglas, Democrat, and Richard M. Nixon, Republican, were nominated for senator in California, to fill the place of Democratic Senator Downey who did not run for re-election.

Mrs. Douglas has been an ardent new dealer while Nixon has been prominent in house investigations of alleged Communists and leftist groups.

Brewster took the stand that the California tickets "will present a clean cut issue for the voters."

"It's wonderful," he said. "If Republicans could have planned the results we could not have done better."

The present senate line-up is 54 Democrats to 42 Republicans. Results of the South Dakota primary meanwhile increased pressure among senators for speeding up legislation for an early adjournment of congress.

Senator Chan Burney, after two six-year terms, was unelected in the South Dakota Republican primary by Rep. Francis Case.

Case conducted a hard-driving campaign while Burney did not get out to South Dakota until shortly before the primary. That made other senators, who face primary or re-election contests, anxious to get back home among the voters.

Both Brewster and Senator Mundt (R-SD) predicted that South Dakota would remain in the Republican column, as it has in most recent elections.

Opposing Case in the senate race will be John Engel, Avon attorney and Democrat, who was defeated by Mundt two years ago.

Thus far, in 1950 primaries involving present senators only Gurney and Senator Pepper (D-Ria) have failed, although Senator Graham faces a run-off for the Democratic nomination in North Carolina.

Willis Smith, former president of the American Bar association who trailed Graham in the first primary, announced yesterday he wanted a run-off.

Secret Jury Investigating Amerasia Case

Washington, June 8 (P) — A congressional source today said a secret federal grand jury is looking into the 1945 Amerasia case in New York.

The source, who asked not to be named, said the grand jury has called many of the witnesses who have appeared before a senate committee which is looking into the secret documents case.

The senate group is centering its attention on the question of who delayed arrests in the affair.

It is reported to have received secret testimony that the late James V. Forrestal probably "advised delaying them."

A source in close touch with the senate inquiry into the secret documents case told a reporter the testimony came from assistant attorney general James M. McInerney, chief of the justice department's criminal division. The source asked not to be named.

Forrestal was secretary of the navy at the time the case broke five years ago. Later he became secretary of defense. He was killed last year in a plunge from an upper floor of the Naval Medical center at Bethesda, Md.

The information about the testimony regarding Forrestal came in light in the wake of still another authoritative report that the committee got testimony yesterday that former president aide James K. Vardaman may have tried to delay prosecution in the hotly-disputed Amerasia case.

McInerney's testimony was taken by the committee last month at a series of sessions behind closed doors.

An informant said McInerney first told the committee he seemed to recall that Forrestal had asked the justice department to delay the arrest of the six persons accused. They were taken into custody by the FBI in June 1945.

2 U. S. Airmen Rescued, Six Still Missing

London, June 8 (P) — Two U. S. airmen who bailed out of a burning B-29 bomber were rescued today after swimming all night in chilly North Sea waters.

Ships and planes pressed the hunt today for six U. S. Air Force men still missing. Searchers last night picked up two other crewmen and the body of still another from the superfortress soon after it crashed off the Norfolk coast of southeast England with one engine in flames.

A calm sea and favorable weather raised hopes that the dozens of searching ships and planes would locate at least some of the six men still missing.

Headquarters of the U. S. Air Force's third air division listed these survivors:

Capt. Henry J. Walsh, the plane's commander, of Alton, Ill.

Staff Sgt. Warren J. Ebert, Minneapolis, Minn.

Staff Sgt. Charles F. Allen, Derry, N. H.

A fourth crewman yet unidentified.

The headquarters did not reveal the identities of those still missing or of the dead airman.

The air force said the plane abandoned when one of its four engines caught fire during a training flight, was from the 72nd Reconnaissance squadron at Fairfield Suisun air base, Sacramento, Calif. It was in Britain on a training mission.

Walsh and Ebert, in a rubber dinghy, were killed from the sea almost immediately by the British trawler Warren which at the same time recovered the dead airman.

Allen and the fourth crewman were rescued early today by company rescuers after the airman floated for more than 13 hours in Mae est life jackets.

Allen's rescuers said he was "hale and hearty" after being night afloat.

Mrs. Oscar Greenberg Honored at Party

Mrs. Bernard Dunn, Mrs. Herbert Griffin, and Mrs. Jesse Gilliam entertained at eight o'clock Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Dunn, with a going away party honoring Mrs. Oscar Greenberg who left Thursday to make their home in Hot Springs.

A green and white motif was carried out in the floral decoration of the Dunn home. A lovely arrangement of hydrangeas adorned the table where Mrs. Milton Dillard registered guests on the entrance porch as they arrived. In the living room were gar-denias at vantage points, and hydrangeas, gardenias, and shasta daisies were used throughout the house.

The hostesses presented Mrs. Greenberg with a corsage of gardenias. During the evening many interesting games were played with prizes being won by Mrs. Milton Dillard, and Mrs. Weir Owens. A lovely assortment of gifts were presented to the honoree a suitcase with "Bound for Hot Springs" written on the side.

A white linen cloth covered the dining table which was centered with a crystal centerpiece of Shasta daisies and white tapers. Mrs. H. W. Hatcher served the individually white cakes embossed with dainty green flowers. Mrs. Gibson Robertson of St. Louis presided at the punch bowl.

On the buffet was a green crystal bowl filled with peach colored gladioli. Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. William Butler, Mrs. Fred Robertson, and Mrs. Edward Schooley.

All members of the houseparty wore gardenias in their hair. There were 30 guests present.

Mrs. Jack Wilson Honoree at Bridge Party

Mrs. Fred Duncan, and Miss Dorothy Henry complimented Mrs. Jack Wilson a recent bride, with a bridge party at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Duncan. As guests arrived Miss Henry presented them with dainty corsages of gardenias.

The living room was beautifully decorated with an arrangement of pink daisies, interspersed with larkspur, and pinks. The coffee table held gardenias in a low bowl.

In the dining room, the bare polished table was centered with silver bowl filled with roses, and Queen Anne's lace.

Four tables were arranged for the players with high score prizes going to Mrs. Brents McPherson and Mrs. McDowell Turner won the bingo prize.

The hostesses presented Mrs. Wilson with a corsage of gardenias, and a lovely gift.

A dessert course of ice cream wedding shoes, and wedding ring cakes embossed with "Mary and Jack", was served to the guest.

Former Memphis Mayor Dies in Accident

Memphis, Tenn., June 8 (P) — Former Mayor James J. Plessants, Jr., died last Friday night "as a result of an accidental gunshot wound."

Inspector Pete Wiebenga of the homicide bureau made the official report "yesterday in Plessants' death. The city attorney and a top member of E. H. Crump's political organization was found wounded on a divan at his home late Friday night. A .38 caliber revolver was at his feet. He died in a hospital shortly after.

Wiebenga said all investigation has been completed and the case is officially closed.

Last of the Sheltons Hole Up at Homes

Fairfield, Ill., June 8 — (P) — The last two active members of the Shelton clan were holed up in their fortified homes today while police pressed their search for Roy Shelton's killer.

Authorities had little to work on a man's footprint and the jacket and pellet of a rifle shell.

Roy, 39, was shot and killed from ambush yesterday while cultivating a field on his farm near here.

He was the third of the five Shelton brothers to be killed from ambush in three years. His slaying was a surprise, because he never had been publicly connected with the activities of the Shelton gang which terrorized southern Illinois during the prohibition era.

Roy's slayer, a sniper who fired from a clump of bushes, escaped. A farm hand, Frank McKibben, 49, told police the killer fired at him when he ran to Roy's aid, but that he never saw him.

No one at the inquest last yesterday threw any light on the shooting. None of the surviving Sheltons or their wives told of any enemies grudges or other reasons to explain the shooting.

Big Earl, 54, one of the two surviving Sheltons, attended the inquest but did not testify. He was surrounded by four burly state policemen as he walked from an automobile to the courthouse.

Big Earl has been wounded twice in the last 13 years in ambush attacks.

His nephew, Little Earl, 34, didn't even come to the inquest. Little Earl also has been the target of gunmen twice in the last nine months.

The other surviving Shelton, brother Della, 50, is a farmer who remained aloof from the Shelton gang's activities. He is Little Earl's father.

The footprint clue was found in the clump of bushes from which the shots were fired at Roy. Police made plaster impressions. The shell jacket was found nearby and the slug was dug out of the rubber tire of the tractor Roy was driving.

Museum of Fashion Is Considered

LONDON — Christian Dior, so fashion creations are as art, but museum pieces, is being Britain establish a national museum of fashion and dress.

This Museum of Costume will built around the private collection of Mrs. Langley Moore of London. Mrs. Moore has been collecting, dating from 1800 to the present day, which numbers about 1,000 items, dating from 1800 to the present day. Mrs. Moore has been collecting clothes and accessories for 21 years, sometimes, she says, at the expense of her own wardrobe.

A campaign to raise 20,000 pounds (about $36,000) for a home for the collection was inaugurated with a recent fashion show. Paris couturier Dior at London Savoy hotel. Ten mannequins dressed from Paris to model the Dior creations, some of them made entirely from British textiles.

The British arts council, a semi-government agency which subsidizes cultural activities, is supporting the drive for the Museum.

Mrs. Moore's collection ranges from dresses, coats and undergarments to footwear and jewelry. Some American fashions are resented.

Look at the FUN you're missing!

SURE, we know—a car is a "necessity" these days. A modern family "couldn't get along without one." Or so you tell yourself.

Come, come, sir! We know, and so do you, the real reason you got the new-car fever—and the kind of car you are hankering for.

You want a car with some fun in it, don't you?

A car you'll get a big bang out of every time you see it parked in front of your house—every time you slip into its front seat—every sweet and easy mile you travel in it.

Well, come see what this beauty does for you.

How the doors swing open in warm welcome at a thumb touch on a button. How the broad seats invite you to take it easy. How the big straight-eight under the bonnet snaps into purring life at your toe-touch.

And then note—

How smoothly you slip away from the curb—especially when Dynaflo* is handling the power transmission.

How firm and steady the whole car feels. How it holds on curves, free of "heel-over" and sway. How each coil-sprung wheel quicksteps over bumps and rough spots that mean jounce and jiggle on most cars—how buoyantly road-free a Buick is.

* Dynaflo Drive is standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

FOUR-WAY FOREFRONT

This rugged front end (1) sets the style note, (2) saves on repair costs—vertical bars are individually replaceable, (3) avoids "locking horns," (4) makes parking and garaging easier.

Fun? You bet it's fun—too much fun to miss.

And there's no reason to miss it, really, for this strapping traveler is priced under many sixes. Starts at figures just an easy step above the so-called Lowest Price cars.

What's keeping you from trying one, when the nearest Buick dealer is ready to demonstrate without obligation any time you want to call on him.

Only Buick has Dynaflo—and with it goes!

HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.)

NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD fender, taper-through fenders, "double bubble" taillights • WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE STATE cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing. Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure, wide-ride-steady torque tubes • WIDE ARRAY OF MODELS with Body by Fisher.

White Leads Legion Over
Plain Dealing

With Buddy White the big gun garnering five for six, the Hope Legionnaires hit hard three Plain Dealing pitchers for 25 hits and 25 runs to take a loosely played 2-5 victory over the Lions of Louisiana and hand Edslie Nix a win on his first starting role for the locals this season.

Buddy White, Hope playing manager, plastered a two-run home run, a triple, and three singles to lead the Legionnaires biggest run producing encounter of the season. Hope got two in the first, two in the third, four in the fourth, two in the fifth, four in the sixth, one in the seventh, and ten in the eighth. Hope failed to talled in only the second frame when Hope couldn't put together two singles and a base on balls.

In the big eighth for Hope, 13 Legionnaires strided up to the plate. Eight of them hit safely and three walked. In that avalanche came Buddy White's third home run of the year with brother Bob on base. Anderson also tripled in the inning and Ridling and Townsend soaked doubles.
Bill Harris delivered a pinch hit single that drove in two runs.
Hope was long due a hitting spree and they were not to be denied at Legion Field last night.

Edslie Nix in chalking up a win in his first start for Hope this year, whiffed nine and issued only two walks. The young right hander gave only eight hits, all singles in going the route. The Plain Dealing Lions got to Nix for a run in the top of the first frame.

Shorty Wise lead off with a single on the ground between short and third that hopped badly to both Anderson and Ridling. Wise stepped second, took third on a wild pitch and scored on a passed ball.

The Lions put another mark on the scoreboard on the third.
With two out, Clark Strayhan singled. This coupled with a pair of errors and a single by John Doles produced the score.

Plain Dealing banged out two more in the fifth. Shorty Wise again started the frame with a base hit, Leslie Crabtree was safe at first and Wise safe at second when Ridling muffed his grounder.
Strayhan struck out, clean up batter Alfred Colvin stepped into a fast ball and plastered a solid single into left field, scoring both runners.

In the seventh Strayhan lead off with a single, advanced on a wild pitch to second, took third on an infield groundout, and scored on an outfield fly.

Son Hamner began for Plain Dealing but had to be jerked in favor of W. E. Copeland in the third with one out. Copeland stuck it out from there on until the eighth when he was hit by a slight earthquake. Ken Walding took over with no one out and Hope continued the rampage. However, after giving up seven runs Walding finally got the side out.

Hope meets Gurdon in Southwest League play tomorrow night at Legion Field at 8. The pitcher as yet has not been named. Saturday night the Legionnaires take on the League leading El Dorado
Oilers in a non league go at 8.

A Slip-On the Lip
EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a series of articles based on actual case histories taken from the records of the Arkansas State Board of Health and prepared for publication by the editorial staff of the general disease division. All records are strictly confidential and names used here have been purposely altered to avoid reference to any person living or dead.

Who catches syphilis?
Records show that poverty and ignorance help breed dangerous VD infections. But the same records show that anyone can catch VD and never know it!

The story of a young man ... call his name James Gunn ... uncovered from the case files at the Rapid Treatment Center in Hot Springs, reveals the common belief that only "trashy" people contract VD.

Jim had just graduated from college.
He regularly attended church services and had the reputation of being a vir-tuous young man with a bright future.
He was engaged to Betty Smith, an attractive brunette, who, like Jim, had the advantages of good environment and education.

The day that Jim reported to the Medical Center a lip sore was the only mar to his handsome appearance.
His family doctor had referred him to the center for treatment. An examination of the fluid from his lip sore had shown the presence of living spirochetes, the corkscrew-shaped germ of syphilis.

Fortunately, Jim was in the primary stage of syphilis, which is the easiest stage to treat. Had he not received immediate diagnosis and medical attention, the outward signs of his infection would have disappeared and years later he could have lost his eyesight, gone insane, or suffered other equally serious losses.

During the course of treatment Jim was interviewed by trained counselors.
Their job was to uncover any associations Jim might have had with persons who could have infected him. Also they hoped to find anyone whom he might have contacted in his present highly infectious condition.

The counselor explained: "Syphilis is a catching disease that is usually transmitted when the spirochete is transferred from one person to another at a warm, moist surface of contact. Usually this happens during intimate relations between sexes."

Jim interrupted. "Couldn't I have caught it from a glass in some restaurant?"

"No, that's practically impossible," the interviewer said, "because the spirochetes live only a few seconds in open air. We've never found a case contracted that way."

Jim paused. "Well, I recently had

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

Ardmore, Pa., June 2—(AP)—A favorite subject of more-or-less serious conversation around the practice green at Merion is Freddie Haas' new cross-handed putting grip. Fred insists it gives him better control of his club and some of the other pros are copying him.

But when someone sinks a long putt in practice, you'll hear, "Was that crosshanded?" Most of the guys remained strictly orthodox, but one left-hander is the open. Loddie Kempa, and he also uses a woodshaped putter, probably one of the few that remain.

The fans are trying to work up a sartorial contest between Jimmy Demaret, whose penchant for loud clothes is well known, and Dale Morey, who has been tabbed the "Demaret of the amateurs". Morey was reinstated as an amateur a couple of months ago, so it could be he decided he couldn't compete against Jimmy. Frank Stranahan, who has said the wrong thing, before came close to doing it again when he mentioned the "Merion Cricket club" while talking for the newsreels. The press had been warned that it's been the Merion Golf club for years, but maybe they forgot to tell the players.

No Question About It

Billy Burke, a rotund golfing veteran who won the open in 1931 was playing around Merion the other day when Skeel Riegel, a brash youngster in the pro game, said, Billy, where did you qualify for this thing? Burke silenced him with: "At a little place called Inverness in 1931."

Scraps and Scrape

Hobart Manley, the young Savannah, Ga., amateur, took bit of ribbing when he outdove Craig
Wood, Gene Sarazen and Bill Campbell from the first tee. Then on the green a photographer wanted to snap him sinking a putt and Manley obliged him by dropping three eight-footers in succession.
As the third rolled in Sarazen cracked: "Put that one on file for Saturday afternoon." And then Eric Monti drove three times from one tee trying to hit one just the way he wanted, his partner turned to a few watchers and asked:
"Anybody here got a dozen golf balls?" Another amateur, Bob Babbish of Detroit, had the spectators worked up yesterday when he reached the 17th tee five strokes under par. Then he blew himself to 4-6 on the last two holes, where par is 3-4. That's one reason why an amateur is called an amateur.

End of the Main Line

When 19-year-old Horace Rawlins won the first U. S. Open championship years ago, he received a gold medal and $15 in cash. That wouldn't pay the winner's cadie these days.

A visiting Norfolk, Va., newspaperman (name on request) was about receiving a call from a baseball fan the other night asking if the ball team was playing. "Sure he answered, "I thought so," came the reply, "because I've been sitting outside the stadium listening to the game on the radio—but there ain't no big hits on." It took a bit more explaining before the fan understood the Tars were playing in another city.

Arkansas Golf Tournament
Underway

Little Rock, June 2—(AP)—Arkansas 1950 state golf tournaments —the open, getting underway today, and the amateur—are likely to be more tests of driving and endurance than anything else.

It's a long 6,520 yards around the par-72 18 holes of Riverdale Country club, scene of this week's battles, and tending ball biter will have a definite advantage.

About 50 of the state's professional and top amateurs were to stroke their way around the first half of the two-day, 36-hole open today.

The open prize money, something more than $200 to be split among the low scoring pros, wasn't much, compared to that at the big tournaments of the nation, but a championship was at stake.
And virtually every pro in the state was due to take a crack at it.

A number of former champions, including 1949 winner Don Murphy of Texarkana, were in the field, but the open has a habit of producing a new tiltist every year. And for that matter so does the amateur, no winner having scored twice in a row since Richard (Bubba) Smart did it in 1940 and 1941.

Anthony Eden to Get Divorce Decree

London, June 8 (AP) — Former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden won a divorce decree today by testifying his attractive brunette wife deserted him in 1947 to live in America.

Eden, whose political ambitions as deputy Conservative leader may be jeopardized by divorce in strait-laced Britain, was granted a decree nisi in a five-minute hearing before Justice Francis Hodson.

The dapper, greying Eden still handsome at 53 — told the court in a firm voice that his wife insisted on visiting the United States in 1946, that he accompanied her there and that she then refused to return to her native Britain.

Mrs. Eden, who has spent most of her time since 1946 in the U. S. and Bermuda, was not represented at the hearing. She did not contest the action.

A decree nisi becomes absolute in six weeks under British divorce law, unless there is an objection raised in court.

Eden, who wore a dark blue suit, was the only witness at the hearing.

Letters from Mrs. Eden were produced in court, but not read. The former foreign secretary refused to comment as he strode quickly from the courtroom after the verdict was announced.

Gossip over the Edens' domestic split has been common in London for many months. But friends of the deputy Conservative leader speculated that he would avoid divorce because of the probable effect on his political career. As the recognized deputy to Winston Churchill, Eden was in line for eventual leadership of the Conservative party — and the post of prime minister when and if the Tories regain power.

... WALLS CAME TUMBLING DOWN — Desks, filing cabinets and other office furniture tumble from the fourth floor of this condemned building in Chicago as a three-ton wrecking ball shatters the walls. U. S. Shipping Best Anti-Tank Weapon

Washington, June 8 — (AP) The United States reportedly is shipping some of its best anti-tank weapons to those European Allies which might be in the path of massive Soviet armored forces in a future war.

Defense officials said the weapons — bound mostly for France under the arms aid program — include bazookas, rocket launchers, and powerful recoilless rifles which are still in the secret stage.

At the same time, the U. S. Army is pressing a long-range program aimed at countering the threat of Russia's potent armored forces by the "development and limited production of a family of tanks superior to those of any possible future enemy."

Officials told a reporter yesterday that U. S. medium tanks — including some modernized World War II types — are among the weapons being sent to Europe under the arms program.

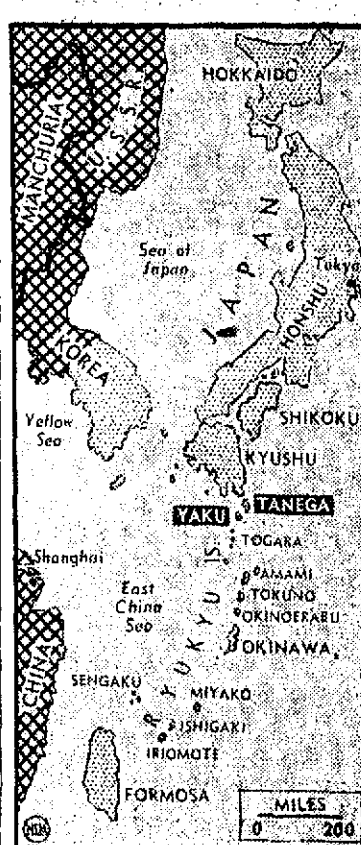

The senate armed forces and foreign relations committees are holding joint hearings on the administration's request for $1,222,500,000 for a second year of that program to rearm this country's friends abroad.

Senator Lodge (R-Mass.), a foreign relations member, told reporters that this program "is the most practical step toward world peace we can take at present."

Lodge, an army officer in World War II, said that under the arms program "within three or four years Western Europe can be made an unattractive target for Russian aggression — and without bankrupting the United States," he added.

"If we do nothing we run a very real risk of World War III," Gen. George C. Marshall, wartime army chief of staff and former secretary of state, said much the same thing in testimony yesterday before the house foreign affairs committee, which also is considering the second-year arms aid bill.

Marshall acknowledged that there is some danger Russia will strike before Western Europe reaches peak military strength. "But," he said, "I am convinced that to sit implicit is the most dangerous thing we can do."

MAY RETURN TO JAPAN — A peace treaty may return to Japan some of her prewar island possessions. These are the northernmost of the Ryukyu chain, including the large islands of Tanaga and Yakushima. At the Japanese surrender, the Allies limited Japan's sovereignty to the four main islands of Honshu, Hokkaido, Kyushu and Shikoku and "such minor islands as we determine."

Military Could Be Dangerous Says 'Ike'

New York, June 8 — (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today that huge military expenditures are necessary but "if unwatched, may dangerously bleed the economy and even destroy what we seek to protect."

Eisenhower made the statement in a speech prepared for the 196th commencement exercises of Columbia University, which he heads. He told the Columbia graduates that "stupendous military expenditures," though "essential for the country's safety," are one of the major problems to be faced in the future.

Eisenhower recently said before a U. S. senate appropriations subcommittee that our military budget had been trimmed as far as was wise — "even too far."

He said at that time that he might have added a few hundred million dollars — not more than $500,000,000 — to the proposed budget for arms, if he had his way.

However, before the committee he also listed a healthy economy as an essential for national safety.

Gen. Eisenhower said today that the danger of wrong answers to the nation's own problems is as critical as the danger from "world revolution, with an announced purpose of destroying the American system of government."

He listed among the problems the graduates must face:

"The growing and apparently, voluntary dependence of many groups upon government subsidies;

"The future character of our medical care and of our educational system;

"The economic and human deterioration incident to industrial strife;

"The effect of huge and mounting taxes upon competitive enterprise; x x x

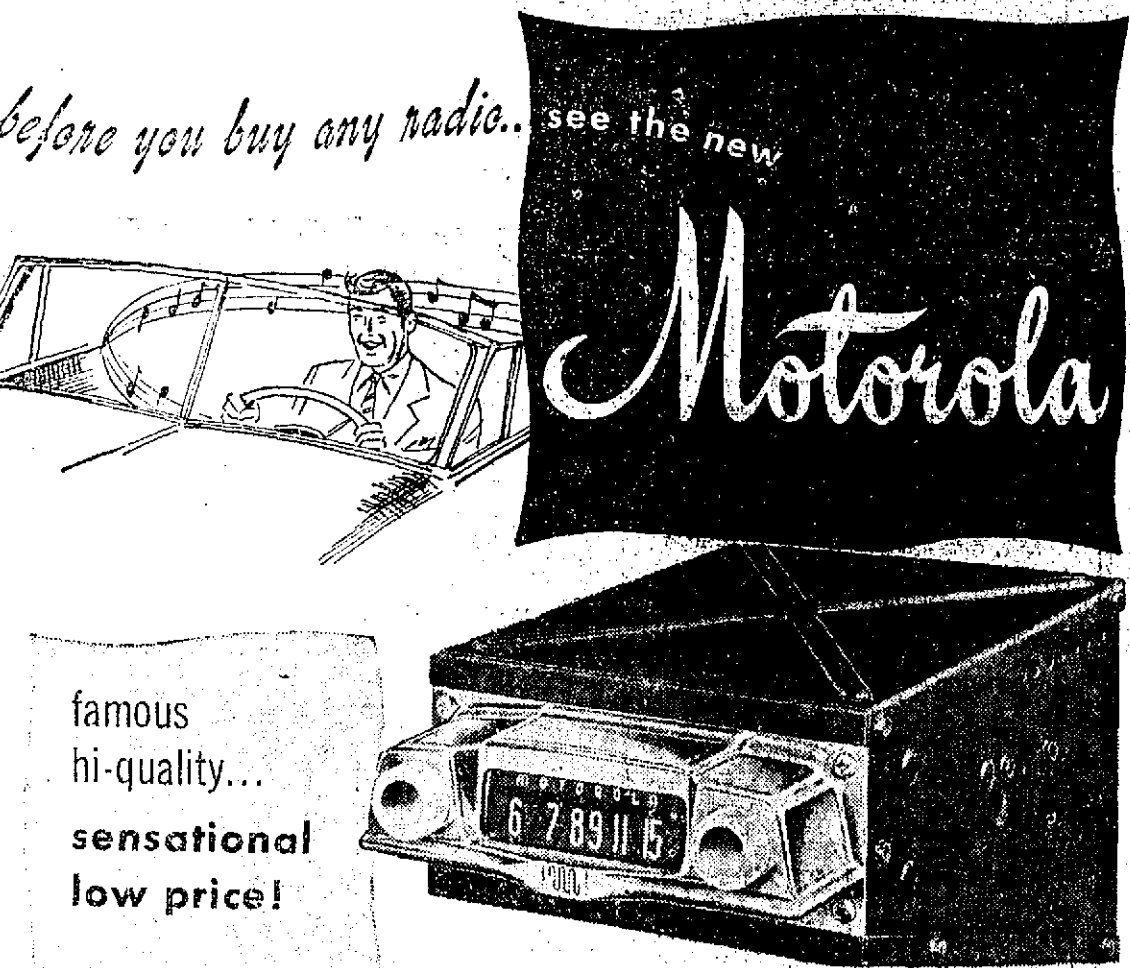

"An unbalanced national budget that is begotten out of group pressures, log-rolling and political compromise;

Remington, U. S. Economist Is Indicted

New York, June 8 — (AP) — William W. Remington, government economist, was indicted by a federal grand jury today on one perjury count for denying he ever was a member of the communist party.

The indictment was presented to federal Judge John C. Clancey.

It charged that when Remington was asked on May 25 whether he even had been a member of the Communist party, he replied: "I never have been."

The grand jury charged that Remington's answer was "untrue in that the defendant had been a member of the Communist party."

The 32-year-old commerce department economist had been questioned once before by the grand jury. The loyalty review board had cleared him after he was suspended from his job and he was reinstated last October.

Elizabeth Bentley, who named Alger Hiss and Whittaker Chambers as communists, charged in July, 1948, that she collected wartime secrets from Remington. He has consistently denied that he ever was a member of the Communist party.

The next month Remington was suspended from his $10,000 a year job in the commerce department. When Miss Bentley repeated her charges on a television program Remington sued her and two co-defendants—the National Broadcasting company and General Foods corporation—for $100,000 in bail.

The suit was settled for a reported $10,000. Miss Bentley's attorney said she "violently opposed" settlement of the suit.

Last October the loyalty review board cleared Remington of the disloyalty charge and he was reinstated in his job.

The special federal grand jury renewed an investigation of Remington last month. The same jury, looking into subversive activities—heard testimony from Remington last year concerning the accusations against him.

On May 16, Remington's divorced wife, Mrs. Ann Moos Remington of Alexandria, Va., spent nearly five hours with the jury.

A few days later Miss Bentley testified before the jury for an hour and a half.

Other witnesses included Howard Allen Bridgman and Kenneth McConnell, ex-communists, who testified before a congressional hearing in Washington earlier in May.

Also testifying before the grand jury was Joseph North, former writer for the Communist Daily Worker. Miss Bentley, has said North introduced Remington to her friend Jacob Golos, whom she described as the head of an espionage ring.

After Remington appeared before the jury he told reporters he

Bond Set for Man Charged With Murder

Jonesboro, June 8 — (AP) — for Joe Payton, charged with degree murder in connection with the slaying of Walter Ashley Wednesday, was set at $5,000.

Judge Zai B. Harrison, at a morning date of Circuit court set the bond this morning.

Payton remained in jail, but his attorney, William Howard, said a $10,000 bond would be posted this afternoon.

At the same time deputy prosecuting attorney William Penick announced that he has filed a charge of accessory before the fact in the murder against Mrs. Payton.

33 Jap Reds Pledge to Fight Back

Tokyo, June 8 — (AP) — The diet's remaining 33 Communists today defiantly declared war on "conspiracies" to outlaw the Japanese Red party.

It was the first word from them since General MacArthur purged 41 Communist leaders from Japanese political life. Eight of those removed were members of parliament.

The Red 33 still in parliament pledged to fight the "colonization, military bases and war preparations policies" of the pro-occupation government.

So far the occupation and the government have left the 33 diet members alone. They are a minority in an assembly of 716 members.

But there was a vague hint of another purge. From Osaka the newspaper Chubu Nippon reported one of Japan's assistant attorney generals said "the third purge of the Communist party will be in late this week."

The Communist diet members issued their "fight" statement after choosing writer Karoku Hosokawa to lead them in future diet sessions. He replaces purged Suno Noaka, generally regarded as the brains of the Japan Communist party.

The Reds did not mention MacArthur. But they did not refer to the purge he started two days ago by banning 24 members of the party's politburo and yesterday

Martin Dies, once chairman of the committee on un-American activities, has peeked out of the past to observe that developments during Truman's red-herring season have vindicated the man who suffered outrageous abuse as his reward for patriotic service.
Dies is right. He was not a wise man nor even a wise guy but a hick in the underworld of smirking treachery which Roosevelt and his wife suffered the enemy to create in the District of Columbia. Nevertheless, he cried the alarm because his nose knew.

I met Dies in the early months of his chairmanship and I decided that he was all right. He was a yokel from Texas who was appalled at the early evidence of treason, a crime for which any typical Texan of that day would have endorsed the death penalty with the least possible formality and delay. He was weak on ideology but strong on patriotism. His weakness enabled the enemy in false American guise to ridicule his work and even his dumb, unreasoned loyalty to the United States. He got an armband of Marx and Lenin, Trotsky and Browder and slowly plodded to a firm understanding of the situation, though his mind was fogged up by the esoteric jargon of the study boys from Harvard law, whose contribution to the Moscow team is a commentary on the cry for more and more "education."

Patriotism was instinctive and uncompromising in Dies and the Old South in the early stage of our corruption. It was not provisional. The past long ago had developed new cults of tomes more loyal to enemies, principally Russia, than to the United States. All of them, ironically, except the Nazis, were members of the Roosevelt front.

The South resisted but was doped by money from the New Deal spending agencies. Huey Long, for a strange fact, didn't yield but told Roosevelt he would raise his own money and run his own dictatorship. He did. The old southern hacks, Connally and Barkley, weighed their own paltry careers and comforts against old-line Americanism, and threw in with Roosevelt. That put them in the company of Felix Frankfurter SAD BLOODHOUND IS HIGH AND DRY—Stranded in Detroit by the rail strike, this traveling bloodhound is no sadder than thousands of other sidetracked travelers—he just looks that way. The pooch wears a long, sorrowful face as he gets a drink of water from freight clerk R. L. Dick.

and the Happy Hot Dogs whom he was planting in strategic spots in the New Deal, such as Alger Hiss, Nathan Witt and Lee Pressman. These old black-hat spellbinders may have been uncomfortable in their private moments, knowing the truth of the revelations of the wretched Doctor Wirt who first exposed the plot, but they have more prominent qualities than principle, and the resistance got no help from them.

The Dies committee, conceding petty mistakes in those early days, amassed a terrible record of treachery against the United States. But, much worse, it aroused a clamor of opposition and personal hatred that proved the high source and great strength of the treason. The White House became our Kremlin, the department of justice our G. P. U.

The Washington Post, posing as a Republican paper, had close personal relations with Frankfurter. Who planted Hiss and testified to his good character. The Post summed the pitch for the pseudo-Republican New York Herald Tribune and the whole cult of unconstitutionalists who wanted extravagant protection for the flagrant suspect. The Post and the Herald Tribune reeled at the recklessness of the "smearing" and the wanton generality of "with-hunts" when the committee on un-American can activities turn out traitors. To be sure, smearing was the proud specialty of Charlie Michelson, Roosevelt's first campaign press-agent. It has remained, in Eleanor's recent book of selected memoirs and pointed omissions, a crude art in lies about Herbert Hoover which Pat Hurley nailed with polite contempt.

It was quite another matter, however, to "smear" guilty traitors or deliberate traitors who belonged to the ruling cult. The Herald Tribune had a queer household. Joe Barnes, who made its editorial policies, in a touching affair, had married the ex-wife of his old friend, Frederick Vanderbilt Field of recent note in the continuing developments goaded into the open by Senator McCarthy. Their relationships and implications were a fine example of the temptations the uncultured patriot to "smear." Barnes left the H-T, he took over Barnes left the H-T, he took over Marshall Field's thing, which long ago had published a gallery of pictures of its staff, inviting discussion of personal communism. Barnes changed its name but not its character, and was sent away with the best wishes of the Herald Trib. Even New York wouldn't take this ideology without a little mix to cut the taste so Joe Barnes's thing presently folded up, to an editorial requiem from the same Herald Tribune.

But now the H-T is claiming credit for the pumpkin papers, which were turned up by Robert Stripling, the martyr investigator for the committee, and nobody else. And the Post is out with a cry of alarm for a "commission on national security" to "survey the internal menace of the fifth column." This comes from the paper which has flouted for years ulterior innuendos of the most notorious liar of the age, and said Alger Hiss "had the misfortune to betray his country in an era of widespread illusions about communism and of being tried for perjury in a period of cold war when the pendulum of public sentiment had swung far in the other direction."

Dies is still right, politicians, including Eleanor, and newspapers, which should have helped the committee, gave aid and comfort to the rascals that it was turning up. Stripling was hounded into the army to spend a futile year as a yard-bird, unable to rise above buck-private. He was called up soon after he defied a command to visit the royal presence and arrange to expunge the committee's evidence on her protégé Joe Lash. I am proud to have been with them through it all. Proud of the enemies we made together. I am honored by smears which elicit no cries of alarm from the Gab, the Post nor the H-T. There never was a day when I couldn't tell a communist from an American, even though Hiss, with an overload of Harvard learning from the Post's friend, Felix, was so confused by "illusions" that he betrayed his country.

Pine Trees Taking Root in Illinois

Rock Falls, Ill. — The pine tree is taking root in Illinois to halt erosion of cornbelt soil.

William Briggs, district representative of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, says there are 3, acres of marginal land in this state suitable for planting pine seedlings. Most of it is overgrazed sandy soil. It won't raise profitable crops. It is easily whipped in to the air by winds or washed away by heavy rains.

Timber, Briggs said, is the best method to keep sandy land in place.

Farmers Can't Lose
Farmers are listening to the story of soil conservation. Private and government agencies are encouraging them to plant pine seedlings. Many are doing it. They know cropdestroying insects are held in check by birds which thrive where trees grow.

The trees farm men now plant will provide game cover hold down the soil and give a profitable cash crop over a period of years.

Wayne L. Ashby, district forester with the Illinois State Department of Conservation, says the total planting in the state last year was 5,696 seedlings.

Wisconsin and Michigan are expected to set 13,000 to 14,000 pine seedlings. Minnesota the conservation men say will plant from 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 seedlings.

EXAM PAPERS RUINED
Ann Arbor, Mich., June 8 (AP)—The $3,500,000 fire that swept Haven Hall on the University of Michigan campus Tuesday destroyed a batch of final exam papers.

But the students won't have to take the exams over. Literary college Dean Hayward Keniston said yesterday final grades will be made by judgment of the professors.

The LONESOME BRIDE

By Grace Nies Fletcher

XXII

WHEN she was a little girl and had visited a farm, Gloria Brown had heard a stuck pig squealing. The pig had sounded just like Mr. Benoni as he pleaded for his life.

Mr. Benoni's voice rose to a higher pitch.

"It was Sadie that killed Sal, Lotty!"

Gloria looked down at Mr. Benoni's wife, lying on the floor with the blood running from the little hole in her temple and staining her gray marcelled hair.

"Killing's too good for him, Gloria thought. Mr. Benoni was trying to throw the blame onto his wife, onto the woman who had made him apple pies with little slivers of lemon in them, who had tried to save the miserable little fat Mr. Benoni, with her own body because—bless her—she loved him.

"I never understood about rheumatism before," Gloria thought. "But I guess it might have some uses."

Yet, when the little gray man's popgun spoke a second time, Gloria drew a deep, sobbing breath, crying, "Oh, no!"

The little gray man turned to Gloria.

Gloria realized that now he was going to kill her. But she saw with amazement that he looked genuinely sorry.

"Got no choice in the matter," he explained. "Be reasonable now. Have I, Toots?"

Gloria didn't answer. She was looking directly at the gun which was pointed at her. It was the first time she had ever looked death squarely in the face.

The little round hole in the barrel of the gun stared at her and seemed to grow bigger and bigger until she couldn't look away. A queer metallic taste of fear was in her mouth. Her throat was so dry that it seemed to stick together and make her breath rasp. But it was funny how something bit from the gun anyhow, she went on:

"No. You've never been alive at all. You're dead right now and you don't know it! As dead as the people you've killed!"

Lofty Gordon's eyes seemed to grow a bit wider and a little more perplexed, as if he were looking at something he didn't think could exist. As he stared at her, startled by this slip of a girl who refused to grovel and whimper and squeal in the face of certain death, Gloria swept on, proudly, gloriously:

"Why, the Greeks looked upon Death as nothing. They made jokes about Death, wrote verses about it: 'Why, perhaps Death is Life and Life is Death' And victuals and drink an illusion of the senses; For what is Death but eternal sleep? And does not Life consist of eating and sleep . . . ?"

Gloria Brown, Phi Beta Kappa, one-time secretary to the professor of classical drama at a great and renowned university, and now wife of this professor's son, might have gone on and quoted the rest of the ancient poem, but for the untimely interruption of a popgun.

WHEN Lofty Gordon's little gun went off, it did not hurt her at all, at first. But it sounded too loud, twice as loud as it had sounded when it had killed Mr. and Mrs. Benoni. Like two guns. Maybe it was because it was a special shot for her.

And the sound was followed by a hot stab in Gloria's flesh, and a sudden push, like a heavy blow that took her breath away.

She saw the room going round and round and it seemed like the little gray man staggered to keep upright in the whirling room.

Then there were fireworks, a vast pinwheel in her dizzy head. She realized she was falling to the floor, still trying to quote Greek poetry as she drifted away into a black whirlpool.

"If only," Gloria thought, "Miltiades could hold me in his arms, I wouldn't mind dying."

And then the merciful black waters seemed to close over her head.

Explanation of Supreme Court Ruling

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 8.—(AP)—When Supreme court justices hand down a decision, it's always in writing. And that's all there is. That's the end of it.

If a decision doesn't seem quite clear to you, that's your tough luck. You can't go and ask them to explain. They don't explain in their written decisions to anyone afterwards.

To laymen — and often to lawyers — the decisions of the court are not always so clear-cut that anyone reading them can say positively what is meant. There are two reasons for this:

1. The language the justices use. They don't always write well. Sometimes their language is not only long-winded, involved and clumsy but seems so rubbety it could mean different things to different people.

2. The justices themselves repeatedly have said they try to give decisions as narrow as possible. That is, they try to say what the constitution means only in some particular case before them.

When another case comes before them — similar to but slightly different from the first case — they say what they think the constitution means in that one.

So over a period of time they may give a number of related decisions, while avoiding sweeping interpretations of the constitution. In other words, they try to move in a cautious way, not a revolutionary way.

There are exceptions to this, of course. And even cases where the interpretation seems narrow may have a wide effect and change a whole pattern of American practice or thinking.

Take two of the cases which the Supreme court decided yesterday, but before doing so look briefly at a decision which the court handed down in 1896.

In that year the court decided that states may segregate the races — that is, keep Negroes and whites apart, such as in trains or schools or railroad waiting rooms — if the two races are provided substantially equal facilities.

The court at that time thought its decision did not violate the 14th amendment to the constitution which says "no state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges . . . of citizens of the United States."

Yesterday the court gave decisions in these two cases:

1. Herman Marion Sweatt, a Negro, wanted to get into the University of Texas law school. Because he was a Negro, he was turned down. But there was then no Texas law school for Negroes.

To make a long story short, Texas set up a Negro law school but, the court says, this was much inferior to the white law school. Further, says the court, this did not provide Texas Negroes with educational facilities equal to those of white Texas law students.

Therefore, the court said, Sweatt must be allowed into the white Texas law school. But — the court didn't overturn the old decision of 1896.

Nor did it say Texas must continue to let Negroes into the white law school if Texas ever provides a Negro law school equal to that of the white one.

Yet — this decision was limited to the University of Texas law school. It seems to leave Texas free to keep whites and Negroes apart in the rest of the schools in Texas. At the same time, it broke down some of Texas' age-old policy of segregation. At least in this one school.

2. G. W. McLaurin, a Negro in Oklahoma. He applied for admission to the University of Oklahoma to study to be a teacher. He was rejected because of his race. Oklahoma has a segregation law on schools.

But — again to make a long story short — he was finally admitted after going to court. He said the constitution was violated because he wasn't given equal opportunity for education with white students.

Yet, when he was admitted, he was segregated. He had to sit apart from white students, eat apart from them, use a separate part of the library. He went to court again and his case reached the Supreme court.

The court ruled yesterday that, by segregating him in the school, the state was interfering with his ability to study. Therefore, the court said, he was not given his constitutional right of equal protection. It ordered the segregation of McLaurin in the school to stop.

In that school, the court said, he must receive equal treatment with other students. But the court didn't rule on Oklahoma's lower schools. And the points involved in the McLaurin decision are the same as those in the Sweatt case explained above.

State Cotton Crop Needs More Sun

Little Rock, June 7 (AP)—Arkansas' cotton crop needs a warm, dry period, the crop reporting service said today.

Most replanting, necessitated by floods, has been completed with fairly good stands reported the service said.

"Insects are becoming a problem x x x boll weevils in considerable numbers are appearing in the southern half of the state."

The report said most of the rice crop has been seeded and the early stands watered.

HITLER LIVES?—This was the cover of the pro-Nazi magazine, "Tempo der Welt," which was an immediate sellout in Frankfurt, Germany, with its edition commemorating the German surrender. An American Negro GI with bayonet is pictured gloating over a downed German fighting plane. Featured story was a purported interview with Martin Bormann, long missing, onetime heir-apparent to Adolf Hitler. The magazine claims Hitler lives, and promises "world Fascism will win."

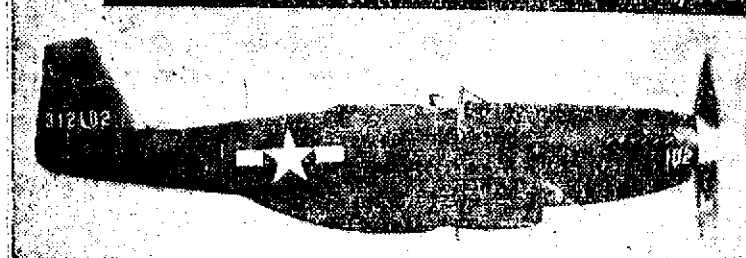

THIS ONE WALKED AWAY—This cow emerged unscathed from the wreckage of an overturned livestock truck near Elkhart, Ind. The truck, loaded with animals and bound for Chicago, was wrecked when it failed to make a curve. Thirty-four calves and one hog were killed. The truck driver escaped unhurt.

DOROTHY DIX Hopeless Infatuation

Dear Miss Dix: I am a woman of 37 in love with a man who professes to love me, but frankly tells me that he has no intention of ever marrying. He wants to be my lover but not my husband. Of late the security of his dates makes me feel that he is trying to let me down easy. In fact, there are no dates except of my making. He never takes the initiative. The days that I don't see him are such long hours of hope and fear and desperate desire that I am driven by something stronger than myself to call him on some excuse or other. Usually that results in my seeing him and the world is right again. Must I stop calling him, knowing it will probably mean never seeing him again? Would I be justified in having an affair with him or may I hope that what I desire is true and that he is in love with me, but is reluctant to give up his bachelor freedom?

ALICE
Answer: Nothing else on earth is more pathetic than the bested folly of a woman who is in love with a man who doesn't love her, for she refuses to use any intelligence in dealing with the catastrophe.

Facts Are Obvious
She shuts her eyes to facts that are so obvious that a blind woman should see them. She refuses to acknowledge defeat, and prolongs her agony by hoping against hope that some miracle is going to happen that will turn a man who is cold and indifferent to her in to an ardent lover and make a confirmed bachelor lead her to the altar.

Evidently this man is tired of you, or if you wouldn't have to hound him on the telephone to get him to make dates with you. A man in love is eager for his sweetheart's society and is always planning ways for them to be together. He doesn't love you, or else he would marry you. All this talk about bachelor freedom is forgotten when a man sees a girl who sweeps him off his feet. The very fact that this man proposed an illicit relationship to you is all the proof you need to know that he didn't care enough for you to be tied to you for keeps. He intended to throw you over after the romance wore thin. Else he would have married you to begin with and saved the scandal. Believe me, you have a lot less to weep over as a deserted sweetheart than you would as a deserted mistress.

Of all useless pursuits, the most who is running away from you. Give it up and forget him.
Dear Miss Dix: I am 20 years old and have been going with boys for so many years that I am tired of it all and want to settle down and have a husband and home of my own. I have met a boy that I like and who is in love with me and he wants to start saving for an engagement ring, but I want to get married right away. He is only 18. Can a boy so young be sure of himself? Is it true that youth never knows real true love that lasts? What is your advice?

MILDRED
Answer: My advice is to wait. If you rush a boy into marriage before he is ready for it, you are certainly heading for trouble. This boy, in the first place, is entirely too young to marry. All that he is capable of at 18 is calf love, and if that lasts it is a miracle and not anything that you have a right to count on.

And in the second place, the boy has nothing to marry on. He hasn't even the price of an engagement ring. If you coerce him into marrying you now, what do you propose to live on? Are you going to inflict a husband on your mother and father to support, or are you going to burden his parents with having to feed and clothe you? So give up all thoughts of being a cradle-snatcher. Let this poor boy alone. Let him grow up before he takes upon himself the responsibility of matrimony. And if you are so anxious to marry, pick out a man instead of a boy for a husband.

Dear Miss Dix: Why can't women keep themselves and their houses neat? My home and my wife always look as if a cyclone had struck them. I wish she would spend some time improving her looks and on her clothes. If my client judged my work by the looks of my wife and home, I would never get an order.

A DISILLUSIONED MAN
Answer: A solvent and untidy woman certainly is a grief to her husband, but since the cause of it is sheer laziness there is no cure for it. And that is too bad because a wife is her husband's show window by which people judge him, and she does him a great injustice when she goes about looking like something the cat dragged in.

For More Good Eating, More Value, Choose A "Super-Right" Steak

How often have you bought a steak at a bargain price, only to be disappointed when it was served! Tough bits of bone and fat, little flavor. If this has happened to you, you'll join the thousands who cheer A&P's "Super-Right" method of selling steak. Here are five reasons why:

1. They're cut from corn-fed beef exclusively!
2. They're selected "Super-Right" quality, graded to conform to exacting A&P standards.
3. They're "Super-Right" trimmed before weighing to remove excess bone and fat.
4. They're priced as low as possible, to give you the most good eating for your money.
5. All A&P "Super-Right" Steaks are guaranteed. You can steak your reputation on a "Super-Right" steak.

Same Old Story—Get Your Man

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEWSFEATURES WRITER

Mable Kinsey took the wraps off the subject, or maybe it's just a habit, but there's a veritable spate of information and advice forthcoming on the general subject of how to get your man.

It all seems to be aimed at the maidens and widows over 25, all of whom apparently are very anxious to acquire a man of their own and don't care whether he has two heads or none at all. Also these over-age women apparently have the foggiest notion of the significance of man-trapping. The significant and frightening thing is that most of these articles are written by men and they uniformly admonish the lonesome members of the frail sex to construct an elaborate trap of lies and deceptions. One shudders to think what will happen to the institution of marriage if this technique is accepted as gospel.

One also wonders why the system is guaranteed to work, when boys can read as well as girls and therefore should be able to spot a young woman when she is operating according to the posted rules.

In case the reader has been spending a few years in Terra del Fuego and away from current periodicals or has just learned to read the rules very much briefed down follow this general pattern:

1. Don't wait to be sought-out. Get out there and find your man. Pick him up, if you can't wangle a proper introduction, but be subtle. Apparently one of the best ways to do this is to spot a likely victim on a train or in a drug store and then sidle up to him, start a casual conversation, and go on from there. I have reports from friends who have tired this, and they say every guy they have sidled up to so far has turned out to be happily married.

When Pee Wee Reese of the Brooklyn Dodgers recently was ejected by an umpire, it marked the first time he had been thrown out of a game in more than 1,000 major league contests.

Terry Cloth Introduced by Designer

BY FLORENCE MILLS
AP NEWSFEATURES

PARIS—Summer dresses made of terry cloth have been introduced by veteran designer Jean Patou, this season.

In his summer style show he uses this terry cloth for simple little dresses with narrow skirts, sleeveless pouched bodices and wide standup collars.

He makes them in cafe creme and pale rose colored material and sets them off with wide patent leather belts which curve to fit the top of the hips at the back. These dresses look surprisingly elegant worn with large straw hats, of the same color as the material, and high heeled sandals.

He uses it in lime green for a sweat shirt worn with navy-blue shorts.

Many other French designers are showing terry cloth in variety of colors for beach wear.

Rochas, another topflight designer, combines grass green terry cloth and purple, water proof crinkled for a reversible, thigh length coolie jacket. He shows it in bright butter yellow for cape stoles that have huge pockets attached to each end of the stole.

Jacques Fath uses wide ribbed reversible terry cloth, shows it in crimson and white for a choker-necked sweater worn with navy blue long trousers.

Search Starts for Cause of C-46 Crash

Miami, Fla., June 7 —(AP)—A searching investigation began today into the crash of a C-46 plane in which 28 Puerto Ricans apparently lost their lives.

Representatives of the civil aeronautics board and the Puerto Rican government flew to San Juan and Charleston, S. C., to open inquiries.

The destroyer USS Sautley steamed toward Charleston with 37 survivors. It was due to dock at 4 p. m. (ST).

Eight were known dead and search hope was held for 20 others aboard the twin-engine plane that went down in the Atlantic 275 miles east northeast of Miami Monday night.

The 165-foot cutter Aurora, three coast guard planes and one air force craft continued to search the area for possible survivors, but officials said there was little hope of finding any more.

The pilot, co-pilot and steward were among those rescued from the plane, which was enroute from San Juan to Wilmington, N. C., with 62 Puerto Rican migrant workers aboard.

Fernando Sierra, Puerto Rican commissioner of labor flew to Charleston to meet the survivors. He was accompanied by Howard Davidson, assistant to the director of the employment and immigration bureau of the department of labor of Puerto Rico.

A representative of Westair company, operators of the plane also was to meet the Sautley at Charleston.

The CAB said in Washington that Gordon Matthews, assistant chief of its accident investigation branch, flew to San Juan to begin an immediate inquiry there.

The civil aeronautics administration said the airline operators currently are under investigation for alleged violation of safety regulations.
